The Team Australia for the IKF World Championships in October/November

At the time the final selection for the Australian team for the World Championships was made, students at Highgate Primary School in South Australia were experiencing korfball for the first time as they piloted the first Korfball 4 program in our country. It's easy to develop enthusiasm in the sport at its introduction and among the elite - making it work in between requires real dedication. Therefore, a special thank you goes to those who have assisted in any way those who have made it to the top and those who will continue to nurture young people in their korfball journey.

Team Australia

With less than one month before they leave, Team Australia is preparing intensively for this premier international competition. While we are ranked 8th in the world, it's going to be a real challenge to maintain our position against countries with far more regular experience of playing at this level on a regular basis in Europe. But we have the Aussie spirit with us and a band of loyal supporters travelling from Australia and from other centres in Europe.

The pools for the IKF WC

The image shows a diagram of the IKF World Championship pools. At the top, there are two logos: the International Korfball Federation logo on the left and the IKF World Korfball Championship logo on the right. Thought for the Month

This is a special one from Kate Jones (in the Weekend Australian September 19-20). She is the Minister of Education in Queensland and with a responsibility in developing the new National Curriculum for Primary Schools.

"We believe there's a real opportunity in the health and physical education curriculum in regard to teaching about respectful relationships to reduce domestic violence and give young people a greater understanding of gender equality"

What more positive means of doing this than teaching korfball! How korfball relates to the national curriculum is outlined in the article presented at the ACHPER International Conference earlier this year Improving gender relations through korfball which you can find at

<http://korfball.org.au/documents/korfball-gender-and-the-australian-curriculum>

Korfball for Primary Schools

Last month we informed you about the Korfball introductory program for primary schools that follows the Playing for Life ideas. It is the full version of korfball (playing in 2 divisions with eight players on each team). This will be available soon on the Korfball Australia website and you can see a good version of this being played at

<https://www.facebook.com/l.php?u=https%3A%2F%2Fwww.youtube.com%2Fwatch%3Fv%3DAiy-nqFb87o&h=PAQEDlcrG>

In countries around the world there is a strong demand from primary age children to play and an Australian version of Korfball 4 is now being developed with the pilot program in Adelaide and a workshop for primary teachers at their ACHPER Conference

The initial conclusions are that the children really like the excitement and involvement in Korfball 4. However for teachers with a class of up to 30 and one set of posts it is difficult to organise on a normal class lesson basis. Sometimes then Korfball 8 is a better proposition for the game activity in a lesson since it involves at least 16 players. Korfball 4 is better for different activities like round robin competitions, intra-school or inter-school competitions and more limited playing areas.

No worries! – the new programs in the Korfball Manual for Primary Schools is organised with lessons that can be used for both forms of the sport. Eventually the Manual will be available free on the Korfball Australia website but in the meantime you can get a copy of the draft by contacting roykirkby@adam.com.au

You can see children playing Korfball 4 at https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=J_UYfmPjW4

Primary children gave their views after the pilot program for Korfball 4 at Highgate Primary School in Adelaide involving over 100 students with lessons over 4 weeks. Asked what they liked about korfball most popular responses were;

“I like how you can shoot from anywhere on the court and go behind the goals” (mentioned by over 60% of the children)

“There’s only 4 in a team so you get more of the ball” (40%)

“ Boys and girls can play together (equality implied)” (30%)

“it is fast-paced and easy to learn” (20%)

Teachers too expressed positive views, how it can involve both genders equally, no advantage to tall over short, fast-paced and good for social skills. They also noted the possible problem of having too few students involved in a game at one time during a lesson, as noted above.

Korfball for High Schools

Korfball4 is coming to high schools too. A program is now being developed to offer another option for our sport for youth and young adults and this will be available by the new year.

Available now is the A15 Korfball 5 Week Program for high school classes which is available free on the Korfball Australia website

<file:///C:/Users/Roy/AppData/Local/Temp/Akorfball5weekProgramHighSchools1.pdf>

This program utilises the latest thinking in developing a “game sense” approach to teaching and relates to the latest Australian Curriculum. Other useful information for teachers can also be found in the Resources section of the website and we have a consultancy service for teachers developing korfball for their school curriculum. KSA State League finals wrap

Key supporter ready for the Finals!

After 20 rounds of korfball, various stadiums and a couple of weeks of finals, KSA State League 2015 has been run and won. The end result, for the first time since 2010, was three teams from different clubs coming home with the chocolates.

In the C-grade final, we had the undefeated Adelaide Boomers White taking on North Adelaide. North were fielding their 22nd different combination for the season and what looked to be their strongest team all year. This proved to be true as North jumped out to an early lead and continued to build on their lead throughout the game. North eventually won 22-13, and finally broke Boomers stranglehold on the C-grade trophy.

B-grade final was next and Boomers once again featured, but this time they would play against Arista. Learning from C-grade, Boomers were able to get the faster start and showing why they finished top of the ladder after the minor rounds, held off a determined Arista team. Boomers coming away with a 3 goal win, 17-14.

Congrats to all the winners.

Finally as my final KSA report after stepping down as President, I would like to welcome the new KSA Committee, Bruce Hutchesson (President – stepping up from Treasurer), Carrie Robertson (Secretary), Lee Jones (Referee Director), Kendall Laffey (League Director), Karina Hutchesson (Development), ? (Treasurer) & ? (Risk and Compliance). I wish them all the best and certainly hope they get plenty of support from the Korfball community, as I did during my tenure.

Mark

Our training is going along well. Jan Hof has been leading the way with coaching and each player is improving each week. On the development side, Amber Gulamali has made headway into Griffith Uni on the Gold Coast & we're trying to replicate that in Brisbane itself. So we're moving along slowly, but surely. Cheers for now,
Brendon Cook (interim QLD President)
